Mum's anguish over son's inquest delay

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

A MOTHER has said she is unable to mourn the death of her five-year-old son because an inquest has still not been held - more than two years after he died.

Harry Mould, from Greenleys, died four days after he was admitted to Milton Keynes Hospital with breathing difficulties.

But his mum Odette claims the inquest into his death has now been adjourned for the second time because the case is so serious it will have to be heard by a jury.

Harry, who suffered from asthma, was taken to the hospital on March 26, 2009 but the following day he was rushed to theatre and transferred to the intensive care unit at Leicester Royal Infirmary. He died three days later.

His family claim he was not checked regularly by staff, who were overworked, or given medication when he needed it.

They filed a complaint and have been waiting for reports into the case to be released by MK Hospital so they can be used as evidence at Harry's inquest.

The most recent report given to the family's solicitor was written by Dr G J Connett, a paediatric respiratory specialist at Southampton University Hospitals Trust, after he was asked to look into the case by Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust.

In it Dr Connet states it 'is an extremely unusual case' and that he is 'not aware of any paediatric cases of acute asthma for which acute deterioration in hospital has resulted in a fatal outcome'.

Mrs Mould said: "I'm so angry with the hospital because had they been upfront to begin with we would have the answers we so desperately need. When the next inquest is held in December it is getting close to three years since he died.

Happier times: Odette and Lee Mould with twins Jessica and Harry

"We are considering taking legal action. There's no money in it, we just want to find out what happened and why."

Mrs Mould said that waiting for answers is affecting the health of her family and preventing them from mourning Harry's death.

Odette is having to take anti-anxiety medication and both her and her husband Lee and Harry's twin sister Jessica are having bereavement counselling.

She said: "It's affecting all of us - we can't grieve properly with this hanging over our heads."

The inquest into Harry's death is now due to be heard by a jury in December.

Bidding war boosts charity fund to £25,000

THECENTRE:MK sparked a bidding war at an annual charity auction last week.

At the event for MK Snap, which helps care for young people with physical and learning disabilities, thecentre:mk donated a hot air balloon ride and a meal for four at Jamie's Italian restaurant when it opens in September.

The prize proved popular with those bidding including the Duchess of Bedford, who hosted the evening. This led to centre director Robert Hall agreeing to provide two prizes to increase donations for the charity and helping to raise the final total of £25,000.

Mr Hall said: "MK Snap's work is invaluable to the local community and we were thrilled to help them raise such a fantastic amount of awareness and money for the charity that evening.

"Their credentials of developing learning and opportunities for people within Milton Keynes, strongly reflect thecentre:mk's values and we were so glad to raise extra funds for the charity in offering two auction prizes following the bidding war."

Gang sought over estate shootings

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

A GROUP of men seen shortly after two teenagers were shot dead in Milton Keynes are being hunted by police.

The five or six men were seen leaving an alleyway on the Fishermead estate after Mohamed Abdi Farah, 19, and Amin Ahmed Ismail, 18, were both shot in the head at about 10pm on May 26.

Thames Valley Police have said they were all black and were speaking a foreign language.

Both the victims were from the Somali community and were known to police for low-level criminal activity, but detectives have so far ruled out the killings being gang-related, saying there is no evidence to suggest this is the case.

Since the incident, police have taken nearly 200 statements, been contacted by more than 200 people and collected more than 350 exhibits, including hours of CCTV which are being reviewed.

Plain-clothed officers also carried out further searches for evidence in Fishermead on Monday.

In addition they are testing two vehicles in connection with the attack and are waiting for the results of other forensic tests.

Police at the crime scene in Fishermead

Det Supt Rob Mason, leading the investigation said: "We have received a large amount of information and intelligence from the Somali community and I am extremely grateful for that.

"However, information alone will not enable us to mount a prosecution, what we need now is evidence."

Detectives have promised to protect the identity of witnesses who give evidence, as it believed some people are too scared to come forward.

So far five men, four in their 20s and a 31-year-old, as well as a 13-year-old boy have been arrested on suspicion of murder in connection with the shootings. They have all been released on police bail.

A public meeting to update the community and discuss any community concerns or issues is due to be held by police at the Trinity Centre in Fishermead this morning at 11am.

City's transport plan comes under fire

A KEY figure in the original design of Milton Keynes claims that the city's new transport plan is not detailed enough.

The Local Transport Plan, due to be adopted by Milton Keynes Council at a full meeting last night, sets out plans for improvements over the next 15 years.

But Andy Thomas, a key engineer in the original design of Milton Keynes, claims it fails to set out a clear plan of what the council wants to achieve.

Mr Thomas, who is also the secretary of MK Forum, a voluntary group designed to represent the interests of city residents, said: "There's no clear long-term strategy as to how transport will be delivered in the future in our growing city."

But Councillor John Bint, the council's cabinet member for transport, pictured, insists the strategy is the best it can be at this stage as it plans so far ahead.

He said: "The plan is the best possible first edition and will be carefully reviewed next year, and as often after that as necessary.

"We cannot predict what will happen in the future.

"The most important thing I would like to see changed in our transport system is trying to get people to use the roads less."

New traffic chief in pledge to fill empty city parking spaces

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

FREE parking could soon return to some areas of the city centre, MK NEWS can reveal.

One of the first actions of Milton Keynes Council's new Conservative cabinet has been to look at the controversial decision to remove all free city centre parking and increase the amount of premium rate spaces.

In an interview with this paper, the cabinet's new transport councillor, John Bint, said there are currently about 700 premium rate spaces that are left empty every day - a situation he is looking to change. Some of these spaces may be made free, with others being reduced to the standard rate of 30p an hour.

"The council is earning zero for these spaces," he added, "so if you can lower the tariff and make more money, that's a really important point to make.

"To make money, sometimes you have to put the prices down."

Cllr Bint also said he thought the move would be good for businesses in the city, adding: "Milton Keynes Council can't afford to have these spaces empty, and neither can the businesses.

"There have been a number of complaints from businesses who have been suffering, perhaps that's to do with the recession generally, but having spaces empty isn't helping them."

Some of the spaces could be made free to people who will be able to park for a limited amount of time, while the rest of the disputed spaces would be changed to purple standard bays.

Cllr Bint is expected to make a decision on whether to ask the public about the plans on Friday.

If he decides to go ahead with the consultation it is expected it will last several weeks before the final decision is made.

Fire-hit bridge set for re-opening

A CITY centre bridge which has been closed for 17 months after being damaged in a fire should be re-opened by the end of the month.

Contractors Balfour Beatty are working round the clock to repair Secklow Gate Bridge in CMK in a contract worth about £234,850.

Linda Inoki, leader of city pressure group Xplain, which led the campaign to repair and reopen the bridge, said: "Xplain supporters throughout MK are delighted that our public protests worked and repairs have finally begun."

An internal investigation by Milton Keynes Council into the prolonged closure of Secklow Gate Bridge continues - the results are expected this autumn.

Councillor John Bint, the new council cabinet member for transport, added: "It's really great that the council is now getting on with it, but it should have been done months ago.

"We need to get to the bottom of why it was not completed earlier. I think the enquiry will discover all sorts of skeletons."

Work on the bridge must be completed by the end of June to comply with the Road Traffic Regulation Act, which says a highway cannot be closed for repair for longer than 18 months.

If it is not finished in time, Milton Keynes Council will have to ask the Secretary of State for an extension.

Decisions due to be made over cash grants

GROUPS that have successfully applied for cash from a new council support fund could soon be announced.

The £1million strategic restructuring fund was set up as part of Milton Keynes Council's budget cuts in February to help those organisations and charities that will be losing funding as a result.

Previously MK NEWS has spoken to organisations like MK Bereavement Service, which lost its grant of about £7,000 and said it may have had to close as a result.

At a meeting last night the new Liberal Democrat leader Sam Crooks was expected to urge the Conservative council decision makers to start looking at which organisations should be getting money from the fund, with some having already applied and pleaded their case.

He said: "Organisations we value shouldn't have to bear the brunt of the cuts in the next year.

"So long as they demonstrate they can save money over a four year period, we can help them spread those savings out.

"The sums of money we are talking about in some cases are very small, but make a big difference, so I don't see why the decisions can't be made as soon as possible."

He added meetings with the first few applicants had been held over the last few days and hopes decisions will be made shortly.

MK's city status bid should be backed with optimism

SIR - I cannot accept the pessimism of your correspondent last week about our city status chances (Letters, MK NEWS, June 1).

For 40 years we've been told we wouldn't be able to do things, whether to create a linear park, build a city centre on the scale of CMK, erect a stadium, achieve a place in the World Cup bid, or to attract organisations such as the Open University, Red Bull and Network Rail.

But we've done them all.

Our bid is about our vision for the future, to engineer the best possible quality of life for all of the citizens of our borough, and to provide them with the opportunity to achieve their ambitions.

Councillor Sam Crooks
Middleton ward

A sad tale of bicycle theft despite security measures

SIR - I write regarding the article 'Security call after rise in bike thefts' in last week's paper.

I told my son to be careful with his bike as there had been a lot of thefts.

On May 20 he locked his bike up outside where he works at Argos.

When he finished work it had been stolen, even though it had only been locked up there for about four hours.

This was very upsetting as the bike was only two days off being four months old. He only works part-time and had saved up to buy this bike.

The advice given in your article by Inspector Helen Corbett from Thames Valley Police's City Centre neighbourhood team includes using a quality padlock.

My son had used a fairly expensive £25 lock recommended by Halfords and it made no difference.

He had also looked into having his bike security marked but had been told this would cost £15, which he couldn't afford – I'm glad to see the cost is now only £4.50, but this will only be any good if his bike is now found.

Cameras are an essential aid in fight against crime

SIR - Following last week's article 'Plans for CCTV at takeaway corner' about a proposal to put up a camera in Stony Stratford I would like to say that anything that would help deter the antisocial behaviour in and around Wolverton Road would be a godsend.

Fighting, vandalism and loutish behaviour are commonplace every weekend. Given the seeming lack of concern by civic bodies such as the licensing authority and police who continue to sanction extended drinking hours, I feel they could quite justifiably be approached to fund the installation of CCTV along the entire road.

A big thanks to all who helped in time of need

SIR - I would like to use your newspaper to pass on my thanks to the Milton Keynes police and members of the general public.

On Saturday, my friend and I took our horses for a ride around the bridleways in Milton Keynes, which is something we do on a weekly basis.

However, while en route an incident occurred and we ended up falling off our horses and they proceeded to gallop away from us on the main roads in Milton Keynes.

We, the owners, would like to pass on our thanks to the police who used their expertise to get the situation under control so professionally and quickly. Our thanks also goes to all the very kind members of the public who stopped and helped in different ways, we are all (both riders and horses) so truly grateful.

Without the help shown by these people, the situation would have become so much worse and what could have happened doesn't bare thinking about.

So once again to the people of Milton Keynes that assisted and helped us on Saturday, thank you so very much.

A simple test may help diagnose eye condition

SIR - It is estimated that at least one in 50 people aged over 40 are at risk of having glaucoma, one of the leading causes of preventable blindness in the UK today.

The shocking reality is that 50 per cent of people with glaucoma are currently undiagnosed and therefore unaware of their condition.

In other words, potentially, more than 300,000 people in the UK could be slowly losing their sight without realising it simply because, in most cases, glaucoma has no symptoms in its early stages.

During National Glaucoma Awareness Week this week, our aim is to raise awareness of glaucoma and encourage everyone over the age of 40 to have a regular (once every two years) routine eye test that includes all three glaucoma tests (ophthalmoscopy, tonometry and perimetry), whether or not they believe anything is wrong with their vision.

Many people may have heard of glaucoma, but what do we really know about it? Five key facts to remember about the 'silent stealer of sight' are that it is an eye condition that in most cases gives no warning symptoms; everyone is at risk of glaucoma, especially those over the age of 40; glaucoma has very effective treatments, but if left untreated it leads to blindness; early diagnosis and effective treatment can prevent blindness; and regular eye health checks at least every two years give the best possible chance of early detection and the preservation of vision.

A comprehensive eye test for glaucoma including all three glaucoma tests is painless, quick and amazingly good value for money when compared with the consequences of losing your vision. The eyes may be or may not be the windows to the soul, but they are certainly a very important window through which only a skilled eye examiner can see a wide range of important things to the benefit of the individual and society as a whole.

For more information about glaucoma, please visit www.glaucoma-asosciation.com or call the IGA Sightline (helpline) on 01233 648170.

Opposition leader calls for council to buy agency land

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

LAND owned in the city by a Government agency should be bought by Milton Keynes Council.

This is according to the council's Liberal Democrat opposition leader Sam Crooks, who believes the move would 'guarantee a secure basis for the council's future strategic planning'.

He added that the cost would eventually be recouped by selling the land on to developers.

Councillor Crooks was expected to make a motion urging the new cabinet to consider the move at a full council meeting last night. It follows the recent demise of Milton Keynes Partnership (MKP), the development agency which oversaw expansions to the east and west of the city.

He believes the council should buy land not yet earmarked for development using either cash or money made from selling assets, with payments spread over a number of years.

He said: "It's what has always happened - the land in a new town or city goes to the local authority and I think it would reflect badly if that didn't happen.

"If you actually own the land, it gives you a hold over what happens on it."

Until it was disbanded last month, MKP was part of the Government's Homes and Communities Agency (HCA), which now oversees all the land previously owned by MKP.

The HCA is currently looking into options for the undeveloped land, but it is expected planning powers for any potential future developments would be transferred to the council.

Conservative council leader Andrew Geary said the acquisition of HCA land into Milton Keynes' control is something they've been working on with the other parties, but how it is acquired is the subject of ongoing negotiations with the Government.

He added: "If we've got to buy it all up front then that could present a problem, but at the moment it's very difficult to say until the negotiations have finished."

MP adds heat to Faye's anti-smoking campaign

A MUM campaigning to ensure the smoking ban at Milton Keynes Hospital is enforced is being backed by her local MP.

Faye Rockley, 26, was angry when she saw smokers lighting up immediately below the neo-natal unit where her baby was admitted with severe breathing problems.

As a result, the Bletchley mum set up a Facebook campaign in a bid to enforce the smoking ban outside the main entrance, which is directly below the unit.

Miss Rockley said: "People need to put themselves in the position of the parents whose children are in the ward with potentially life-threatening illnesses."

Now Iain Stewart, MP for Milton Keynes South, has written to the hospital's interim chief executive, Mark Millar, urging him to solve the problem.

The hospital has also set up a steering group with Miss Rockley, staff and patients in the hope of finding a solution to the smoking situation.

A hospital spokesman said: "The working group will be making its recommendations shortly, so we expect to be able to take further action in the near future."

As reported in last week's MK NEWS, another mum, Tanya Wetter, also set up a Facebook campaign 'Stop Smoking Outside Milton Keynes Hospital' after visiting her mother when she was a patient there.

Landlord fined for waste disposal

A LANDLORD was fined nearly £2,000 after using a rogue waste disposal service that dumped his rubbish in a stream.

Magistrates heard that on Thursday, October 28, 2010 a farmer from North Crawley found a large amount of builder's waste, electrical items, broken furniture and toys dumped in a stream on his land, and had to pay to get rid of the waste.

Investigations by Milton Keynes Council led to an empty property in Windsor Walk, Luton, which was managed by a company called Instant Lettings.

Imran Khan, 28, of Instant Lettings, Mill Street, Luton, pleaded guilty to three offences of breaching his duty of care with regard to the proper disposal of waste under the S.34 Environmental Protection Act at Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court on Friday.

It became apparent that Khan had arranged for waste to be removed from the property but had failed to use a registered waste carrier, revealing he had used somebody who had dropped a leaflet through his door.

He admitted to failing, as the law demands, to keeping records of his waste, who had removed it and where it was being taken.

He was fined £1,700 and ordered to pay Milton Keynes Council's legal costs of £704.24.

Fears raised over new casino plans

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

A 24-HOUR super casino in the city centre could result in impulsive gambling and higher crime levels.

That is according to a city group and councillors opposing plans to build the facility at the Xscape in Central Milton Keynes.

CMK Town Council and local pressure group Xplain, for quality development, have filed an objection with Milton Keynes Council's licensing committee against awarding Xscape the casino license it is in the running to win.

Rebecca Kurth, leader of the town council, said: "Xscape is too near to where people will be out drinking. If it was based at the stadiummk, which is just that bit harder for people to reach, it would prevent impulsive gambling."

The leader of Xplain, Linda Inoki, added: "The extra people would naturally mean extra crime. There are many deprived areas around CMK and a casino would provide temptation to the people living in these areas, leading to more debt."

However, Inspector Helen Corbett, from Thames Valley Police's City Centre neighbourhood team, said officers are not worried a casino will lead to more crime.

She added: "If you look at other towns where these casinos have been built there has not been any rise in crime. These casinos seem to be well-managed with good levels of security. We have no concern whatsoever about there being a rise in crime if a casino is built here."

As part of the Government's Gambling Act 2005, Milton Keynes was chosen as one of eight locations to host a regional large casino.

Since 2008, three possible sites have been earmarked by developers who have applied for a casino license - stadiummk, Xscape and the Leisure Plaza.

Xscape and Aspers, which would run the casino if it is given the go-ahead, did not wish to comment.

MKNEWS BRIEFS

Three attack man at cashpoint

A MAN was bitten in a robbery on the Redway near Leopard Drive, Neath Hill.

Three men approached the 23-year-old after he withdrew some cash from a Co-op, tried to punch him in the head and then grabbed him around the neck and threw him to the floor.

The victim suffered scratches and grazing but did not require medical treatment.

The offenders are all about 16 years old and white. Anyone with information about the incident, which happened at about 5.45pm last Wednesday, should call 0845 8 505 505.

Wait is on for Torch visit news

A DECISION on whether the Olympic Torch will visit Milton Keynes is not expected for 'months', according to the councillor driving forward the city's bid.

Liberal Democrat leader Sam Crooks said Olympic officials would take their time researching the torch's potential journey.

Overnight stops have already been confirmed for the flame but the actual route between them has yet to be confirmed.

Relate's help for Father's Day

POST a card to Relate MK if you're not planning on sending one to your dad this Father's Day.

The relationship charity said those who do not have a relationship with their dad may benefit by sending a card, explaining their feelings, to one of the charities counsellors.

Cards can be sent to Relate MK, 47 Aylesbury Street, Wolverton, MK12 5HX, with all details being kept confidential.

MP to keep up fight to sort school places

A NEW admissions code could help reduce the number of children having to wait for a school place.

As revealed by MK NEWS in October, scores of children were still waiting to start school well into the first term after their applications were made after the cut-off date, such as those moving to the area.

A legislation change in September meant the council had to co-ordinate these in-year admissions for all schools in the area, but now the Government has said this responsibility should return to schools, removing some of the red tape.

Mark Lancaster, MP for Milton Keynes North, raised parents' concerns in Parliament last year and is 'delighted' with the announcement, but has urged the importance of proximity to be considered.

He said: "It is beneficial for children to be able to walk to school where possible.

"Delays and distance are not something children should have to encounter when it comes to school places. Therefore I will continue to push for a fairer system."

Plans revealed for arts facility

NEWPORT Pagnell has moved a step closer to having a community arts centre in the town.

Richard Meredith, chairman of the group behind turning the three-storey building on the former Aston Martin factory site into a gallery, workshop and possible meeting place, spoke at the first public meeting into the scheme.

Around 50 people heard Mr Meredith, chairman of the Newport Pagnell Cluster Group, present the plans for the historic Salmon Coachworks building, one of three structures earmarked for preservation when Tesco builds a supermarket on the site in Tickford Street.

Dave takes title for being the best PCSO

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

A POLICE Community Support Officer (PCSO) from the area has been named the best in the county.

Dave Huckle, a member of the Newport Pagnell policing team, was nominated for the Buckinghamshire PCSO of the Year 2011 award for his wholehearted support for multi-agency work.

He was put forward for the prestigious award by Lin Goodship from Milton Keynes Council's housing service.

She said: "There are many occasions when Dave has contacted me to report seeing an empty property, open windows, damage to a council property or an incident police have attended, which has had implications for the local community.

"A tenant complained about a neighbour's teenage children and friends who caused nuisance outside their home.

"Dave talked with the family and youths on the estate.

"He was able to ascertain that the relocation of a street sign would resolve the nuisance, which is what happened.

"On another occasion, Dave reported an empty property in a block of flats. With his assistance we made investigations and found that the named tenant was illegally sub-letting the flat.

"I was able to take back the property to be re-let."

PCSO Dave Huckle chats to a Newport Pagnell resident

PCSO Huckle was also recently acknowledged in a commendation ceremony by Acting Chief Superintendent Nikki Ross after he, along with PC Daniel Smith, saved the life of a young girl who was threatening to jump off the bridge over the M1 in Little Linford Lane, Newport Pagnell. They were able to grab her and pull her to safety.

PCSO Huckle said: "It was a nice surprise, and good to be recognised for all PCSOs and myself.

"I'm very proud to win the award, particularly as I was nominated by an outside source – it's nice to get recognition from outside. This is what I enjoy and I like the idea of working in the community so this is what I've done for the last few years."

Have your say on future of libraries

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

LIBRARIES are again under the microscope as the public is asked for its views on how they should be run.

As part of the huge £71million that has to be saved by Milton Keynes Council over the next four years, the city's library service is facing a large reduction in funding and has to change the way it currently works.

In February both Stony Stratford and Woburn Sands libraries were told they would have to close unless a community group could take over running them from the council.

But at the 11th hour the council approved funding for another 12 months so it could carry out further research into alternative options.

Now people are being asked to take part in a consultation to work out how the library service can continue to be operated.

Councillor David Hopkins, cabinet member responsible for libraries, said: "This is no longer about closing libraries, that is no longer an option.

"This is about working with local people to see how best we can take the service forward to meet ever changing demands and challenges.

"I'm sure there will be a wide diversity of views expressed."

But Emily Malleson, a member of the world famous Save Stony Stratford Library campaign, is sceptical.

She said: "I don't think there's a lot of difference to what they were saying before - they were never intending to close the libraries but transfer them to us to run.

"I'm taking this as a positive step, but we're not there yet."

For more information on how to get involved in the consultation, visit www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/library_services.

Get voting to win money for aqueduct

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

ONE of the city's most important architectural features needs your help to win a grant of £60,000.

Carrying the Grand Union Canal over the Great River Ouse, the Iron Trunk Aqueduct near Wolverton celebrates its 200th anniversary this year.

To mark the occasion, Wolverton and Greenleys Town Council is hoping to restore it to its former glory, but it needs £120,000 and half of this can be raised by people voting for it as part of a UK-wide National Lottery campaign.

The Jubilee People's Millions campaign will grant £60,000 to community projects across the country that people feel are most deserving of the cash.

On Monday, June 27, the council's Happy Birthday Iron Trunk! project will go head to head with another community scheme, with people being able to vote on the day. Hilary Saunders, chairman of the council, said: "This is a big deal for Milton Keynes and we want everybody to pick up the phone and vote.

"There would be no Grand Union Canal if it wasn't for the aqueduct and we want to tart it up, improve visibility by removing weeds and sapling trees, create a circular walk and improve the signage to tell people about it.

"It's a huge technical job that can't just be done by volunteers and £60,000 is a big deal for a town council."

The scheme will be going up against the Wellingborough Volunteer Bureau's WelliPlanters project, which will provide gardening support for older and disabled people who have difficulties tending to their own gardens.

People can vote on the day with the telephone number being announced on www.jubileepeoplesmillions.org.uk at 9am and lines staying open until midnight.

Drive to get people to switch to bikes

BY DAN PALMER
dan.palmer@mk-news.co.uk

A RACE with a difference will be held in Milton Keynes as part of an attempt to get people to switch from four wheels to two.

The event, which is similar to a challenge that took place on BBC motoring show Top Gear, will see a car, a public bus and a bike battle it out through the city.

All three modes of transport will set off from the Coachway and finish at Station Square in Central Milton Keynes on Monday.

It is part of the Cycle MK Challenge, which organisers hope will encourage residents to get on their bikes instead of getting behind the wheel.

Co-ordinator Stuart Duncan said there is a place for pedal power, despite the city's famous grid road system being designed to allow people to travel around quickly by car.

He said: "The main aim is to show people that you can get around by bike in almost the same time as a car or a bus, if not faster, and you hardly have to use the roads."

Mr Duncan, who will take part in the challenge alongside MK NEWS reporter Dan Palmer, added he had already tested the course by both car and bike and there 'wasn't much in it'.

On your marks: From left, Dan Palmer, Ceri Griffin and Stuart Duncan ready for their challenge

"Hopefully it will persuade people that they don't always have to pick up their car keys," he said.

Switching to two wheels would help in the battle against spiralling fuel costs and would also be better for the environment, and the city's businesses are being asked to get involved in the challenge. Staff who cycle between now and July 3 can log their progress online, with prizes for the best performing companies.

Recycling advice goes door to door

Milton Keynes Council's recycling team is currently out and about, speaking face to face with residents in an effort to improve both the quantity and quality of recycling in 19 areas across the borough.

John Nwugo and Hannah Kay (pictured) are helping residents to better understand how to use our recycling service and encouraging them to get involved.

In the first week of door-to-door canvassing they gave out a total 80 blue boxes for glass recycling to residents who previously did not have one – if all these residents put out just a few glass bottles and jars each week this will make a difference to the amount we recycle.

Burying waste in landfill is expensive, currently costing taxpayers £80 per tonne, whereas recycling waste actually makes money, keeping down the cost of Council Tax for everyone.

While recycling in Milton Keynes overall stands at an impressive 52%, in some areas the rate is as low as18%, showing that more can be done to raise awareness of our easy-to-use scheme.

The initiative, sponsored by waste contractor Serco and Community Waste, which runs the recycling facility, will run until mid August, by which time the team hopes to have visited over 14,000 properties.

The aim is to increase recycling in the chosen areas by 2% which would save the council £150,000 by recycling an additional 2,200 tonnes of waste instead of sending it to landfill.

As well as handing out blue boxes, our recycling advisors are giving out information on what materials can be recycled, explaining how to use the food and garden waste service, promoting our free bulky waste service and giving details of our free text and email alert service (please see our website for details).

The recycling team will be calling in on parts of these areas:

Bletchley, Oldbrook, Fishermead, Heelands, Bradville, Conniburrow, Newport Pagnell, Eaglestone, Peartree Bridge, Kents Hill, Monkston, Netherfield, Kingsmead, Westcroft, Grange Farm, Great Holm, Fullerslade, Galley Hill, Hodge Lea, Stacey Bushes and Wolverton.

For more information on recycling please visit our website: www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/recycling, email: recycling@milton-keynes.gov.uk or call our Environmental Services Contact Centre on 01908 252570.

John and Hannah, our recycling advisors, may be knocking on your door to answer any questions you may have on recycling.

Work of the Family Court in spotlight

ON SATURDAY Milton Keynes Magistrates' Court will open its doors from 10.30am to 3pm to show the work of the family, youth and civil courts to the public, as well as re-enacting some historical cases. In the final part of our three-article series, Miranda Powell Shedden, chairman of the Family Panel, talks about the work of the family court.

Miranda Powell-Sheddon, head of the family division at MK Magistrates' Court

THE work of the Family Court falls mainly into two parts.

Firstly there are the Public Law applications, which are made by Milton Keynes Council, mostly for care orders for children who it believes are at risk of harm.

The social workers will have been working with the parents before the application is made, in order to help improve their parenting skills. Preventing the removal of the child would be the council's preferred route, and certainly ours too.

Then the social workers look to see if there are any grandparents or uncles and aunts who would be willing and able to take care of the child. They do also have to consider the possibility of adoption for the child.

The magistrates monitor the progress of the case, and at the final hearing they hear all the evidence. This can take several days and further days are then needed for the bench to give full reasons for its decision and to write it all up.

The other part of our work consists of Private Law applications made by one parent for contact with their child, and sometimes for the child to share residence between the parents.

Sometimes a reporting officer from the Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service is appointed to visit the child with both parents in order to ascertain the child's wishes and feelings, if he or she is old enough to express them.

We read the statements in advance and hear evidence from both parents and the reporting officer and then retire to make our decision and write up our reasons.

Crucial war machines

TWO exhibitions celebrating some of the most momentous events of the Second World War have been opened at Bletchley Park. Reporters ADAM GRINSELL and DAN PALMER take a look at some of the history behind these exhibits.

Arnold Hargreaves, who served in the Royal Navy during the Second World War

THE Enigma and Tunny machines are two of the most historically important artefacts from the last century.

The capture of the Enigma machine turned the tide in the battle for the oceans, while the creation of the Tunny device gave the Allies the inside information they needed to win the tactical war.

On May 26, a new gallery with a full scale, working replica of the Tunny machine opened at Bletchley Park.

It follows a new exhibition to celebrate the 70th anniversary of the capture of an Enigma machine, which was opened on May 9.

The Tunny was an Allied recreation of the German Lorenz SZ42, which was used to encrypt messages sent between German battle headquarters, in places like Russia and Italy and Berlin.

When these messages were intercepted the Tunny was used to decrypt them, allowing the Allies to know what the Germans were planning.

Speaking at the opening of the gallery Captain Jerry Roberts, who worked with the machine at Bletchley Park, described the importance of his work.

"The messages being sent between Berlin and the front line were only ever signed by four people - the fourth being Hitler," he said.

"I can still remember the excitement when the first message signed by Adolf Hitler was broken.

"In one instance, we were able to warn the Russians of a huge planned attack three months in advance, and not only that, but tell them the whole German order of battle in that assault."

To mark the opening of the gallery, Bletchley Park Post Office has issued commemorative postage stamps, available on a commemorative cover featuring 1940s photographs of the original Tunny machines.

The crucial work being carried out by those working with the Tunny followed an incredible raid in 1941, equally important to saving countless lives.

That raid was described by King George V as the most important event of the Second World War at sea.

On May 9, the Royal Navy team on the destroyer HMS Bulldog captured an Enigma machine and codebooks from the German U-boat 110.

With the items in their possession, the Allies were able to crack German naval Enigma codes.

Able Seaman Arnold Hargreaves, now 93 years old and living in Bletchley, was a member of the historic crew that boarded the U-110, but the gravity of what they found didn't sink in until much later.

"We didn't know about an Enigma machine or anything like that," he said. "They say it was an important find but we were not aware at the time, it was just another job for us."

The prized assets were flown to Bletchley Park where Alan Turing and his team of codebreakers saw them as invaluable.

Some historians argue that the advantage this gave the Allies was so momentous that it shortened the war by up to two years.

But for Mr Hargreaves, the mission in the North Atlantic Ocean was just another day at the office.

Along with other members of the crew, he was tasked with boarding the U-110 after a depth charge attack had brought the submarine to the surface, near to the Icelandic coast.

Mr Hargreaves said: "We rowed out to the submarine and it was quite hard to board because of the waves.

"It wasn't clear if anyone was still on board at first, but they had all jumped overboard.

"Then we took it in turns to go into the submarine, fetching stuff up."

It was 2nd Lieutenant David Balme who found the items that went onto to be such a key factor in crucial victories for the Allies.

Both exhibits can now be viewed at Bletchley Park.

Take part in city challenge

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

THE Mud Tub and the Sand Bag Drag will be just two of the obstacles in a new race being held at Willen Lake.

The first of its kind in Milton Keynes, the Bootcamp Challenge will take place on September 10 and will see competitors race through Campbell Park before reaching the lake and taking part in an obstacle course, including a wade through the lake itself.

Depending on ability, participants can run either five, eight or ten kilometres before attempting the course, which will have things to climb over and under and get you dirty.

Organised by exercise and training company fitMK, chief drill instructor Simon Williams says the goal of the challenge is to get Milton Keynes active by giving people something to train for.

He said: "I thought it would be just too easy to do a five or ten kilometre race, so I've spent the last three months talking to The Parks Trust and the management at Willen Lake to get the obstacles there.

"It's not going to be extreme like the tough guy races, but it will get people running through the lake to bring a different element to the race.

"The whole point is it's a challenge, to get people to do something above and beyond what they would normally do."

Simon Williams, right, chief drill instructor of fitMK, puts some of the group's members through their paces

Also there on the day will be mini bootcamps for people to try out for free and nutritional talks from personal trainers. Mr Williams hopes the event will become an annual one and could potentially involve charities in the future.

Entry to all races is £35 per person to cover the cost of the event.

Party held to Marc opening of centre

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

THE mayor of Milton Keynes has opened a new community and resource centre.

Councillor Alan Richards cut the ribbon at West Bletchley's new Melrose Avenue Resource Centre, or The Marc, last Wednesday. A a party and activities for residents were also held to mark the occasion.

The centre will play host to a number of agencies, including Milton Keynes Council's housing department and Thames Valley Police, which will be on hand to offer information and advice to the West Bletchley community.

Created after a consultation with residents, it is also hoped the core opening hours can eventually be extended to offer more services and events.

Councillor Veronica Belcher, chairman of West Bletchley Council, said: "I am delighted by the high level of interest already being shown in The Marc and look forward to watching its growing success.

"I would, on behalf of West Bletchley Council, thank all of those local individuals and agencies who have helped us to establish this important community resource."

The centre's coffee shop has already proved to be a success, attracting visitors from across the parish who have enjoyed the opportunity to have a friendly chat.

Located in a former retail space in Melrose Avenue, which is now being leased by the council, the centre is currently open Monday to Friday from 10am to 4pm.

Group fighting to stop new homes

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

AN ACTION group is set to protest against controversial plans to build more than 100 homes in its town.

Stop Storey Homes is due to take to Woburn Sands High Street on Saturday to raise awareness of plans to build homes on a nearby site.

Storey Homes wants to build the 102 houses at a 18.4-acre site, called Wavendon Park, about 1.5km from the High Street.

Nick Luke, organiser of the group, claims the demonstration is vital to make locals more aware of the plans, which were submitted to Milton Keynes Council on May 16.

He said: "People do not fully understand the importance of the proposals. Furthermore, they are angry about the plans but do not know what they can do to stop them.

"If the plans go ahead it will cause chaos. While it is at the north of the town, it will affect everyone.

"What I would say to residents is just write, write, write to the council and tell them your views."

Iain Stewart, MP for Milton Keynes South, has backed the fight against the development and will be showing his support at the demonstration.

Campaigners Ian MacLeod and Nick Luke with one of the signs in Woburn Sands

As previously reported by MK NEWS, the plans have faced strong opposition from residents.

The site is at the top of a steep hill in Cranfield Road and residents are concerned homes at the bottom will flood.

They are also worried about traffic problems, including potential blind-spots on the winding road and congestion in the High Street.

Storey Homes did not wish to comment.

"Our pigs are all British and sourced from the local area and are handpicked by our butcher for their fuller structure giving a meaty spit roast.

"Our staff are all fully uniformed, professional, polite and will make sure your guests are well looked after. We have provided hog roasts for a variety of events from informal garden parties to elegant weddings and all our equipment is clean, smart and professional to suit all occasions.

"All our side salads and sauces are homemade using fresh ingredients from scratch, so our apple sauce will actually taste of apples."

Stony sets sights on national bloom title

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

EFFORTS are being stepped up to ensure Stony Stratford brings back the Britain in Bloom title.

After impressing regional judges last year and winning a gold award in the local Thames and Chiltern competition, Stony was selected to go forward for the national competition in the Small Town category this August.

Organising group Stony in Bloom has been working on community projects to get residents behind the bid, and the town itself has already shown its community spirit to the judges by achieving national press coverage with its colourful royal wedding bunting display.

All of these aspects are what regional judge Norman Parker says gives Stony a great chance of bringing home the title.

"The judges will look at not just horticultural features, but the environment and the work being done by the community including children," he said.

"The town is up against some strong competition with places like St Martins in Guernsey, but if they just keep on doing what won them the gold award last year, I think they will be in with an excellent chance."

School chef Michele Parsons and Stony in Bloom's Judy Deveson with some pupils from St Mary and St Giles Middle School

Stony in Bloom chairman Judy Deveson has attended St Mary and St Giles Middle School to take part in its weekly planting session. The children plant their own produce and get to taste the final product. And thanks to a donation from the Futures Group community fund, the school has built a polytunnel to enable lessons to be taught throughout the year.

Mrs Deveson said: "Britain in Bloom isn't just about planting, it's about educating people and children about horticulture and nature."

As previously reported in MK NEWS, Milton Keynes has also been entered into the Large City category in the national competition.

Station, pool and centre plans take step forward

PLANS for three long-awaited projects in one town have moved a step closer this week.

Wolverton will soon have a new railway station, swimming pool and health centre.

Work on the new station building, which will provide passengers with improved facilities including a new ticket office and booking hall, seated waiting area and toilet facilities, will begin on Monday and is expected to be finished by the spring.

Milton Keynes Council has said disruption will be kept to a minimum with the existing building staying in use until the new one opens, but some of the car park will used by the building contractor.

Councillor John Bint, responsible for transport, said: "The new station building will bring much needed and improved access to rail facilities while providing a landmark gateway structure for Wolverton."

The town will also be getting a new health centre in Gloucester Road after planning permission was granted by the council on Thursday.

It will provide additional services including podiatry, flexible consultation spaces and incorporate the GPs from the current surgery.

Work will start this summer and finish next year with the current centre remaining open until then.

Meanwhile, final plans for the town's new £8.06million leisure centre have gone on show this week.

The facility will include a six-lane, 25-metre community pool, a learner pool, gym, multi-use studio, café and terrace.

The plans will be on display in the lobby area of Wolverton and Greenleys Town Council in Creed Street until Tuesday and then a planning application is expected to be submitted to Milton Keynes Council.

Hilary Saunders, chairman of the town council, said: "This pool should be good and because it is now indoors it can be open long hours and used all year round."

Share your library memories with all

BY KIRSTEN RAWLINS
kirsten.rawlins@mk-news.co.uk

BOOKWORMS are being asked to send in their memories of the city's library to mark its 30th anniversary.

Staff at The Central Library are encouraging residents to tell them about their experiences, such as the first books they took out as children.

Manager, Helen Bowlt, said: "Many people will remember the first book they took out. For younger people it may have been the likes of Enid Blyton, Roald Dahl, Judith Kerr or the Dr Seuss books, while adults were probably heavily into Stephen King."

Local historian and writer Lee Scriven says the library inspired him to start a new career.

"Milton Keynes library is a wonderful place, full of superb books, regular exhibitions and of course a comprehensive historical archive," he said.

"Since it opened it has provided me with inspirational books, videos and DVDs that have helped me move from cleaning windows for a living to become a professional author, journalist and photographer. I love the place to bits."

Library managers Sally Elson and Helen Bowlt

The £1.8million facility was opened on June 3, 1981 by the late peer Lord Goodman. At the time, its shelves were stocked with 100,000 new books.

The most well-known feature of the library is the huge mural, depicting life in Milton Keynes in the 1980s, which was commissioned by Milton Keynes Development Corporation and painted by internationally acclaimed artists Boyd and Evans. The library has recently added more Boyd and Evans artwork and now has eight pieces on display.

E-mail your memories to central.library@miltonkeynes.gov.uk.

Changing jobs pays off for Amanda after her award win

BY ADAM GRINSELL
adam.grinsell@mk-news.co.uk

A MUM-OF-ONE who quit the rat race to set up her own business has scooped a national award.

Amanda Perkins, 28, from Walnut Tree, has scooped the Young Woman Franchisee of the Year award, part of the Encouraging Women into Franchising Awards, after quitting her office job as an HR advisor to spend more time with her one-year-old daughter Niamh.

She was given the award for her success in running the Buckinghamshire and South Northants franchise of Musical Minis.

It provides groups for babies and pre-school children, using a combination of music and stories to aid the development of co-ordination, speech and social skills.

The judges of the awards, presented in a ceremony at the offices of NatWest in Bishopsgate in London, commended Mrs Perkins for her remarkable business abilities running the franchise.

She said: "I'm really, really pleased with the award, loads of people have been getting in touch to pass on their congratulations, there's been a great reaction.

"I left my office job as I found it stressful and I didn't want that with a baby to think about.

"Running a franchise for Musical Minis has been a great change for me, giving me a great work-life balance, I can even bring my daughter along to the classes - I can't really imagine doing anything else ever."

Since taking over the franchise in April 2010, Mrs Perkins has achieved record breaking performance figures, increasing the number of classes from two to 13 across the Buckinghamshire and South Northants area.

Joint managing director of Musical Minis, Karen Sherr, said: "It's great that Amanda has been recognised in this national business award scheme for all the hard work she's put in to the Musical Minis franchise."

Success: Amanda Perkins and Niamh with her award for Young Woman Franchisee of the Year

Bed specialists offer the shopping experience of your Dreams

DREAMS bed specialists has unveiled a new bed and bedroom furniture superstore.

The new store, in Winterhill Retail Park, represents a milestone for the company as the 15,000 sq ft building has allowed it to design what it believes to be the 'ultimate' bedroom shopping experience.

The bespoke space has given the company the freedom to design and layout the store, with navigation geared towards easy shopping.

Commenting on the opening of the showcase store, Nick Worthington, CEO of Dreams, said: "Developing this new Milton Keynes store has been such an exciting project.

"A lot of thought and careful planning goes into designing all our store interiors, but this great site has given us the total freedom to create an in-store layout tailor made to offer our customers the ultimate shopping environment."

It is hoped the new superstore could create extra jobs in the future.

SIMON DARNELL

RILL RILL

Sleigh Bells

AH YES, summer.

Picnics in the park, driving around the countryside with the roof down, getting sunburned from nodding off on the beach and all the things that us hardy Brits have to cram into the annual week-long gap between spring and autumn.

You'll probably hear the phrase 'the sound of the summer' bandied around on the radio over the next couple of months or so, however, Sleigh Bells is not a very summery name for a band, but it's a very summery tune.

Midtempo, gently paced, and with the sort of melody that would've easily got it a place on the soundtrack for a Wild West movie about 30 or 40 years ago.

Mind you, everything's ever so slightly off-centre, with the most noticeable aspect being the lyrics.

They're very sweetly sung, but they make absolutely no sense. If this was indeed part of a movie soundtrack, then everything about the film would be fine apart from one brief moment in the opening credits where the sheriff rides his horse through town and passes a petrol station on his way to the saloon.

That's what this song's all about; on the face of it it's got a distinct sound, but it doesn't quite fit in with the genre.

Still, as 'sounds of the summer' go, you could do a lot worse than this.

In fact, I'd put money on other bands doing a lot worse than this.

Look, here's one now.

SAN FRANCISCO

Cascada

"I'LL take you back to 1969," croons Natalie Horler at the start, immediately bringing my attention to a huge flaw in her logic.

Ms Horler, you were born in 1981, how are you going to take anybody to 1969 when you've never been there yourself? It's not like you can find your way with an AA route planner. I highly doubt that the use of Auto-Tune and a melody that sounds as though it was bashed out on a family PC are particularly representative of the era either.

I also missed out on the 1960s, but I refuse to believe the decade was anywhere near as boring as this song makes out.

BUCKS OPEN STUDIOS

AN ARTIST will be opening the doors to his home to showcase his work for the first time as part of Bucks Open Studios.

Watercolour painter Colin Philip Bee, 68, discovered a love for his hobby while on holiday on the Amalfi coast in Italy and has been producing work from his home studio for the last seven years.

He says he has always painted for sheer enjoyment, but he now has so many pieces in his house and in drawers that he thinks it is time to put them on display and try to sell a few.

"We've never opened a studio up to the public before," Colin said. "I've sold ten or 12 over the last few years, but I don't set out to sell them, though this time we are actually putting them up for sale."

Colin will be exhibiting his work as part of Bucks Open Studios, which features countywide exhibitions and events between June 18 and July 3. Started in 1986, the event has this year grown to 274 venues with 481 exhibiting artists.

Five other artists exhibiting in our area are Julienne Hanson, Diana Tonnison, Debrah Hopson Wolpe, Mark Nelson and Len Gifford.

Admission to all listed venues is free. For more information, visit www.bucksopenstudios.org.uk.

Colin Philip Bee will be just one of the artists in the area displaying his work as part of Bucks Open Studios

THEATRE DISTRICT

MASCOT OLYMPICS

Saturday from 11am

Missed out on your Olympic tickets?

Don't panic, for this Saturday you can see if Mooie is faster than Pucky or if Gullimouse can outjump Louis in the Mascot Olympics.

This annual event features local and national mascots from sports clubs, charities, attractions and companies doing all the things they usually do while competing in a series of gruelling competitions - hilariously.

In a fun-packed day the Theatre District has teamed up with the Milton Keynes Play Association to provide a whole host of games, workshops and activities.

The event starts at 11am with a dance demo by Desperate2Dance and then you can join in with the mascot warm up.

The first Mascot challenge is the Welly Wanging at 11.30am and at noon they will test their strength before the chaos of the mascot race.

At lunchtime you can take part in either a Desperate2Dance workshop and learn some hip hop and street dance moves or join MK Parkour and learn some free running.

Throughout the day, there will be arts and crafts, junk modelling, bouncy mayhem, face painting, silly fun activities, such as milk the cow and find the treasure, plus various stalls and a fun fair.

At about 2pm the mascots will take part in the penalty shoot out as youngsters attempt to score goals against them.

The final and most gruelling event is the Obstacle Challenge at 4.30pm after which you will be able to battle to become the fastest to complete the course.

MIDNIGHT TANGO

Tuesday-Saturday, June 18

STRICTLY Come Dancing tango stars Flavia Cacace and Vincent Simone present and star in this new dance extravaganza - but Flavia says it's not what you might expect.

The 31-year-old Italian's dance partner Vincent choreographed and chose the score for the show, set in a bar in downtown Buenos Aires, but they also depart from the medium which made them famous to try their hand at a bit of acting.

"Vincent now thinks he's Al Pacino," Flavia said, "but it's been very natural for us actually.

"The show follows a proper storyline, it's not just one dance after another, so you don't have to be a dance fanatic to come and enjoy it, there's something for everyone.

"There was a lot of pressure - it's been the biggest challenge we've done and the most satisfying. We had to choreograph over 30 different dance numbers. It was pretty daunting to be honest."

Audiences can expect solos and big group productions of the Argentine Tango and other dances with influences including Ballroom Latin.

Flavia added: "People will be very surprised, it will be something they aren't expecting - it's not just amazing dancing."

PARK LIFE

THE Parks Trust's World Picnic, a free festival to celebrate the music, dance and cultures of the world, will be filling Campbell Park with fun on Sunday, July 24 from 1-6pm.

And there's still time for community groups to take part in this fantastic get together.

Julie Dawes, The Parks Trust's events co-ordinator, said: "The World Picnic is one of the biggest community events of the year and it's a great free opportunity for community groups to tell their story to thousands of visitors. All they need to do is bring along their own gazebo, tables or display material.

"It's a chance for community groups to meet people from many different cultures in an informal and lively setting. They can let people find out more about their work and might gain new members for their groups too."

Spaces are allocated on a first come, first served basis and community groups should email events@theparkstrust.com or call 01908 255375 for more information and a booking form.

This year's World Picnic will be welcoming some amazing outdoor performers thanks to a grant of nearly £10,000, supported by the National Lottery through Arts Council England.

Included in the line-up will be a ten metre pink pig with an animatronic head, babies made from vegetables parading around in a giant old-fashioned pram, DJs on stilts and abstract street dancers arriving in a London taxi.

Popular Milton Keynes carnival and arts company Festive Road will be making a welcome return appearance with their giant kettle and with music, make-up, hat and costume making workshops.

The funding was secured by Bill Gee, creative producer of the International Festival, and these exciting acts will help to add a new dimension to the World Picnic and give visitors a taster of next year's highly anticipated International Festival.

For more information on events in the parks visit www.theparkstrust.com.

HEART FM COLUMN

HEART breakfast show presenters Stuart and Natalie wake you up each weekday morning and write to you each week in MK NEWS.

IT'S been quite a week for Cheryl Cole. First she is dropped from American X-Factor, then it's announced there's no seat for her on the UK show.

We spoke to JLS, who were unequivocal in their support for Cheryl. Oritse said he wanted to give her a 'big old hug' when she comes home. He definitely has a soft spot for her.

They also told us about their plans for a boy's holiday with Olly Murs. "To celebrate the end of our tour we're going away on a lads' holiday for a few days, it's going to be amazing," they said

"It's the first time we've been away with each other together on a non-JLS trip."

The question is where are they going? "We can't tell you that, somewhere in Asia," said Oritse.

We also caught up with Masterchef judge John Torode and wanted to know which celebs are handy in the kitchen.

He told us he reckons Kate Middleton is good around a kitchen. "I know she's a fan of Masterchef and prior to her wedding she pre-recorded the final of the series to sit down and calm her nerves, it's true. The other thing to remember of course was that Prince William charmed Kate by cooking for her in his flat and she's just as good as him."

He also told of us of a brush with the GaGa! "I filmed Have I Got News for You the other week and my dressing room was next door to hers and I saw what she was eating," he said.

"It was all raw fruit and veg, so while I reckon she would be good in the kitchen, it would be very alternative and quite new."

Stuart and Natalie present Heart Breakfast Monday to Friday from 6am-10am on Heart 103.3FM.

Company or lease car returns ...

Refurbishing your fleet vehicles can save you big time. The cost of repairs from Finishing Touch is a fraction of what you could very well end up paying in penalties for returning damaged vehicles to your leasing agent / fleet provider.
Our approach to fleet repair work is simple - restore vehicles to meet the guidelines laid out in your Fleet Wear and Tear documentation so you avoid penalty fees

A FOOTBALL team representing the British Red Cross have defied the odds to win a tournament at stadiummk.

The side, formed by the organisation's city based Refugee Support Service, lifted the Inclusive Sports Forum (ISF) Cup, seeing off seven other teams.

Red Cross volunteer Martha Jiya put together the side, made up of support service users, volunteers and friends.

It was the first time that the team had played together, some players had not even met, and the team kit had to be borrowed from the MK Dons.

The players defeated Bletchley Vets, Punjab United and MK Community on their way to the title, winning the final after a tense penalty shootout.

Kerri Beech, the Refugee Service manager, said the triumph proved that football is an international language.

She said: "Our refugee service users are often in difficult situations and can feel marginalised in the community."

ATHLETICS

LONG jumper Greg Rutherford was denied a new British record because of the wind at this weekend's Diamond League meeting.

Rutherford, the current record holder, jumped a distance of 8.32 metres at the event in Eugene, Oregon.

It was two centimetres more than his current record of 8.30 metres, set at the 2009 World Championships in Berlin, and was enough for the Milton Keynes athlete to win the meeting.

But the wind speed was slightly above the legal limit, meaning the jump could not count as a record breaker.

GOLF

A GOLF star of the future has bagged himself a new sponsorship deal.

Nine-year-old city player JR Ellis, who plays at the Abbey Hill Golf Centre, has linked up with the American Golf store in Milton Keynes.

Justin Mullins from the shop said it was "refreshing" to see youngsters getting into the sport.

He said: "It is particularly nice to see a young golfer with potential. American Golf are pleased to sponsor JR and be a part of his future."

JR took up golf three years ago and started entering tournaments after just five months, quickly winning a number of trophies.

He is currently busy preparing for the European Tour, where he will be one of just 14 junior golfers from the UK competing.

Abbey Hill coach David Armor said: "With his natural ability and his new clubs, I am very hopeful JR will come within the top five."

BOWLS

WOBURN Sands Bowls Club held a charity day on Sunday, with the male players taking on the women in aid of Willen Hospice.

More than 40 bowlers took part in the event, which was enjoyed by all despite the weather not being kind.

The result was a victory for the men, but only just, and £200 was raised for the worthy cause.

Robbo happy as Harry over Spurs fixture

DONS boss Karl Robinson can't wait for his side to take on one of the country's big boys.

It was announced last week that a Tottenham Hotspur XI will visit stadiummk on July 26 as part of the Dons' pre-season preparations, and the manager is delighted that the meeting with Harry Redknapp's Premier League charges has been confirmed.

He said: "It is fantastic that we have been able to organise a pre-season game with Tottenham.

"They are one of the country's top clubs and have shown they can compete with the best in Europe."

Spurs will travel to Milton Keynes just two days after completing a tour to South Africa, but Robinson is expecting a tough test regardless of the team that is put out.

"I know this fixture will excite a lot of our fans and it is a chance for us to see how prepared we are for the new season," he said. "Any team Tottenham field will be one of the highest quality."

Also arranged for the Dons' pre-season itinerary are trips to League Two clubs Oxford United and Barnet, on July 23 and July 30 respectively.

An away match with non-league St Neot's Town is also in the diary for July 9.

Oxford finished 12th in the bottom tier last season, which was their first back in the Football League since promotion from the Conference.

Meanwhile, Barnet only confirmed their Football League status on the last day of the season after spending much of the campaign fighting against relegation.

Robinson is likely to field a strong line-up at Underhill as the League One campaign is due to get underway just a week later.

Fixtures for the new season will be released on June 17.

No complaints from race ace Nash over slide out of top three

MOTOR RACING

MK DRIVER James Nash has slipped to fourth in the British Touring Car Championship standings, despite equalling his best ever result.

The 25-year-old travelled to the Oulton Park circuit in Cheshire and claimed two out of three independent wins in his turbocharged Vauxhall.

Overall he finished fourth in the first race and second in race number two, but the 14th place finish in race three left him out of the points and caused the drop in position.

With 95 points in all he is just a point behind third placed Mat Jackson and eight away from current leader Matt Neal.

Nash said: "We can't really complain. We overcame a few problems and got a few trophies. I went off in race three because I was pushing for a place so no complaints there. It was a shame things ended up the way they did in race three but we've got to take the positives."

In race one, Nash's gamble to use slick tyres on the front axle paid off, as he fought his way through to the top four from ninth on the grid.

He then finished third in race two, but was promoted a place after Rob Collard was penalised by the stewards for a robust overtake.

In the third race, Nash and Collard made contact causing the city driver to spin off, and he was unable to claw enough places back.

Next up for the drivers is a trip to the Croft circuit in Yorkshire.

LOCAL CRICKET

MORRANTS FOUR COUNTIES LEAGUE

Division One

LEADERS North Crawley saw off Olney Town by 53 runs to remain on top of the table.

Olney put the pace-setters into bat and dismissed their opponents for 188, with five different bowlers helping the cause with two wickets each.

In reply, Olney opener Paul Gallyot struck 57 but his side slumped to 135 all out, largely thanks to Richard Bryce's 4/35 and three wickets from Sam Murphy.

Second placed Milton Keynes City lost their 100 per cent start to the season by scraping a draw against New Bradwell. City skipper Jason Loveland elected to field and New Bradwell posted a credible 253, Allen Bridgeman (52) and Harry Singh (51) top scoring.

Naseem Malik also contributed with a quick-fire 28, including four sixes.

Jin Lall fell early for City, who found themselves in trouble at 139/5, but New Bradwell, sensing victory, were only able to take a further four wickets, leaving City on 236/9.

Milton Keynes CC won by 47 runs against Newport Pagnell, after posting 192 when asked to bat.

Dharmesh Mistry made 51 before he was bowled by James Fletcher, who finished with figures of 5/36.

The reply failed to get going and Newport were eventually dismissed for 145 after 34 overs.

Elsewhere in the division, Elstow drew with Biddenham and Eaton Bray beat bottom club Studham by 47 runs.

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE CRICKET LEAGUE

Premier Division

STONY Stratford halted their losing run with a 32-run win away at Old Northamptonians.

The visitors were put into bat and made 239, Sharn Gomes (54) and Jarrod Pretorius (58) both reaching their half century.

In response a superb spell of bowling from David Avery, who finished with figures of 5/32, saw the hosts reduced to 42/5, with five of the top six batsmen failing to reach double figures.

A late rally from Tom Hafil (46) and Tom Webb (44) took Northamptonians close to their target, but they were eventually dismissed for 209 to hand Stony the victory.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

Division One

BLETCHLEY Town won for the second week in a row with a two-wicket victory away at Leighton Buzzard.

Saxon Wright took 3/28 as Leighton scored 187 and Bletchley scraped over the line to finish on 188/8, James Sprittles the star man with the bat with 45.

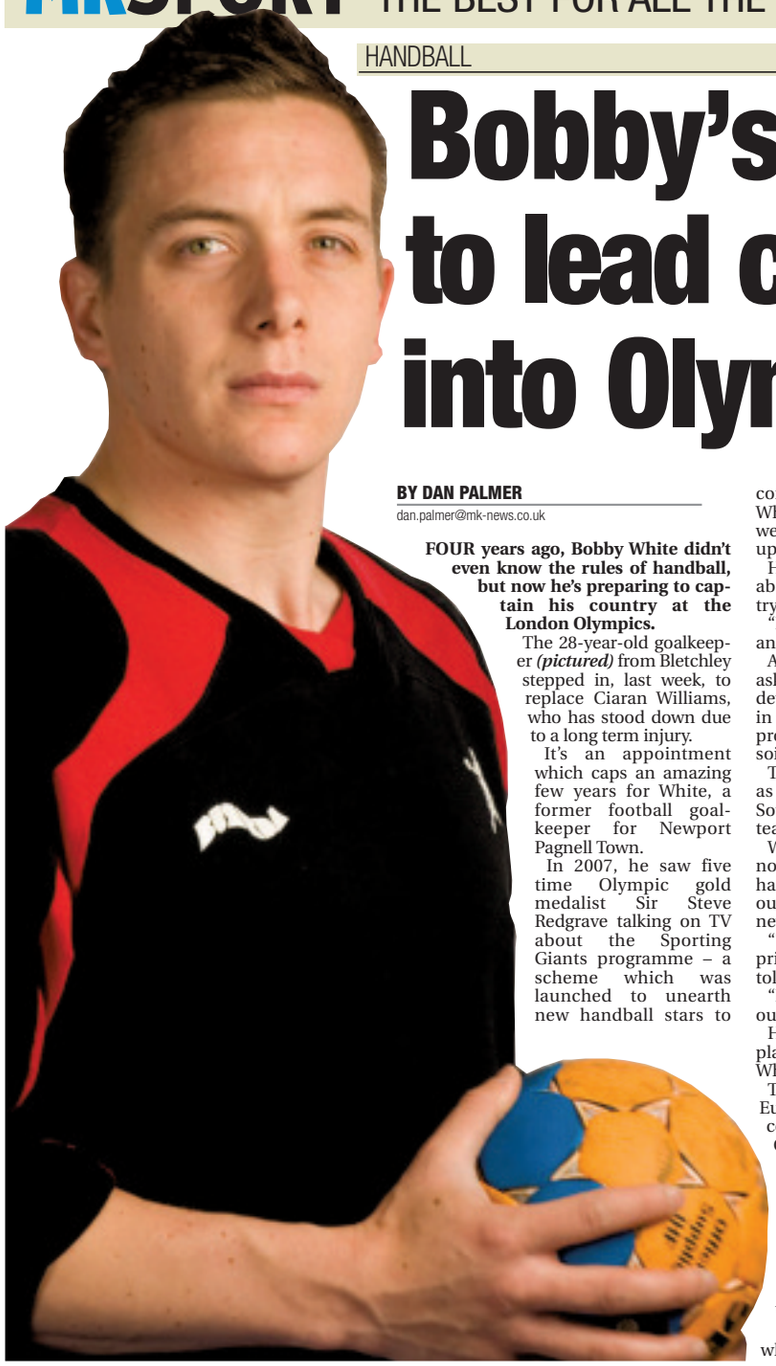
HANDBALL

Bobby's proud to lead country into Olympics



BY DAN PALMER
dan.palmer@mk-news.co.uk

FOUR years ago, Bobby White didn't even know the rules of handball, but now he's preparing to captain his country at the London Olympics.

The 28-year-old goalkeeper (pictured) from Bletchley stepped in, last week, to replace Ciaran Williams, who has stood down due to a long term injury.

It's an appointment which caps an amazing few years for White, a former football goalkeeper for Newport Pagnell Town.

In 2007, he saw five time Olympic gold medalist Sir Steve Redgrave talking on TV about the Sporting Giants programme – a scheme which was launched to unearth new handball stars to compete for Great Britain on home soil. White, wondering if his goalkeeping skills were transferable to a new sport, signed up and has never looked back.

He said: "I saw Steve talking on the BBC about the chance to represent your country and it sounded interesting.

"But I only knew the basics of the sport and didn't know the rules."

After impressing coaches, White was asked to move to Denmark to continue his development and training has now begun in earnest for next year's once in a lifetime prospect of an Olympic Games on home soil.

Trips all over the world, to countries such as Brazil, Spain, Greenland, Japan and South Korea are being planned to help the team fine-tune their preparations.

White admitted that the journey from non-league footballer to Olympic captain had been a "rollercoaster" but he has thoroughly enjoyed the ride and is relishing his new role.

"To be named as captain is a massive privilege, it was a proud moment to be told by the coach," he said.

"It's a huge honour, and I can't wait to get out onto the court."

Handball features two teams of seven players, and when not with Great Britain White turns out for Greek club Kydon.

The sport is played widely in parts of Europe but is practically unheard of in this country, forcing the need for the Sporting Giants project which has essentially formed a national side from scratch.

Great Britain's men grabbed their first competitive victory against Bulgaria last June and are determined not to simply make up the numbers in London.

"We are aiming to get into the knockout stages to get a top eight finish," White said.

"That would be massive considering where we have come from."

SQUASH

British Champion Daryl Selby will be in action to open the new MK Squash Club courts

World class squash hits the city courts

WORLD class squash will be coming to the city to officially open the newly-refurbished courts at Milton Keynes Squash Club.

The courts on Keller Close, in Kiln Farm, have been completely done up and some top talent will now be showing what they are made of.

Daryl Selby, the British national champion and World ranked number nine, will be taking on Chris Ryder, world number 37 and Kent Open Champion, in a head-to-head contest.

Club director David Boyd is looking forward to the clash, which will take place on June 17, with the match starting at 8.30pm.

He said: "This promises to be a unique display of squash talent.

"Apart from this grudge match, the professionals will coach local juniors, play all comers and answer questions on the game."

The night will also feature the club's oldest player, 72-year-old Colin Stratford, who will also be taking on Selby.

To make this match more balanced, the players will use traditional wooden rackets.

MK Squash Club runs leagues, coaching, social events and exhibitions and is open to new members.

For more information or tickets to the opening, e-mail Mr Boyd on david.boyd@mksquash.co.uk or visit www.mksquash.co.uk.

BADMINTON

Liz within one place of rival

BADMINTON star Liz Cann is right behind rival Susan Egelstaff going into this month's three Asian tournaments, starting with this week's Thailand Open Grand Prix Gold event in Bangkok.

The Milton Keynes based player has moved up to number 38 in the world rankings, just one place behind the player she beat to win the Commonwealth Games bronze medal in Delhi last year.

Cann will tackle the Bangkok tournament and then the next Super Series event, the Li Ning Singapore Open next week.

This will be followed by the Djarum Indonesian Open at the end of the month.

In Thailand she faces a tough first round clash against German fifth seed Juliane Schenk, who she has met five times before, winning once.

Meanwhile, Commonwealth silver medalist Rajiv Ouseph is eighth seed at the event and faces Mohamead Arif Abdul Latif of Malaysia in his quest for valuable ranking points.

Other city based players will also take to the court when the tour moves to Singapore. Doubles pair Chris Adcock and Andrew Ellis will be in action, while Jenny Wallwork and Gabby White will compete in the women's doubles.

In the mixed doubles, city residents Nathan Robertson and Wallwork will continue their Olympic rivalry with White and Robert Blair and Adcock and Imogen Bankier.

Just eight places separate the three pairs in the world rankings with Robertson and Wallwork at number 15, Adcock and Bankier at number 20 and Blair and White at number 23.

FOOTBALL

Young Dons impress against Blues

MK Dons U15 3
Chelsea U15 4

THINGS looks bright for the young Dons of the future judging by their performance against illustrious visitors Chelsea.

A superb crowd of 2,622 turned out last week to support the club's youngsters, who were given the chance to enjoy the full big match experience at stadiummk.

Things didn't get off to the best start when Chelsea took an early lead through Jordan Houghton. Some slack play allowed the Blues player to nip in behind the defence and fire a shot past Joshua Thompson but the young Dons refused to let the early setback get to them. They were the better side for the rest of the half, deservedly finding a leveller when George Williams picked out Giorgio Rasulo.

The 13-year-old brilliantly avoided a couple of defenders in the box before finishing emphatically at the near post.

Both crowd and team were fired up by the strike and things got even better when a mix up in the Chelsea box saw their keeper stranded off his line. The ball fell to Williams who kept his composure before dinking a sublime finish over the helpless stopper and into the empty net.

Into the second half and the Dons quickly extended their lead from the penalty spot.

Brendan Galloway nipped around Chelsea sub keeper Ben Kilip, who was adjudged to have brought the Dons man down.

Williams took responsibility for the spot kick and made no mistake with a cool and calm finish.

It had been a superb performance up until this point but Chelsea showed their class to force their way back.

Fankaty Dabo curved a bending shot into the bottom left corner to reduce the deficit and then captain Ambrose Gnahore pounced with two late strikes to seal the turnaround.

He first slotted under Thompson after finding space for himself before smashing home the winner from close range.

Barry vows to prise Sam away from MK

BY DAN PALMER
dan.palmer@mk-news.co.uk

PETERBOROUGH United hope to strike a deal for Dons star Sam Baldock by the end of the week.

Dons snubbed a bid from the newly promoted side for their leading scorer last week, but Posh Director of Football Barry Fry is refusing to admit defeat just yet in their attempts to prise the 22-year-old striker away.

Posh's first bid is thought to have had a potential value of £1 million, from which £600,000 would have been paid to the Dons up front.

The remaining £400,000 was made up of potential add-ons, and would have only been paid if Baldock met certain targets during his Posh career.

These terms were rejected by Dons Chairman Pete Winkelman, as the club's valuation of Baldock is a lot higher than what Peterborough were offering.

Money will be available to spend at London Road when a deal to sell their star striker Craig Mackail-Smith goes through.

Fry said he thought the initial bid was beneficial to both clubs and claimed a further meeting with Winkelman had been set up to discuss matters.

He said: "I spoke to the MK chairman and we haven't been able to agree a deal, but we're due to meet and discuss it further.

"The chairman has given me the go ahead with a very substantial amount of money, hopefully at the weekend a deal will be done.

"They want the fee up front, but he has had a couple of injuries and I'd be more comfortable in paying it after he's played the games.

"I think we'll sit round the table and compromise one way or the other, normally if the manager identifies a player I end up getting him one way or another."

Baldock has scored 14 goals this season, 13 in the league, and was last on target with a sweetly struck free-kick in the home leg of the play-off semi-final against Posh.

As the first success story to come through from the club's Academy he is highly regarded by Dons fans, who consider him as one of their own.

Following their promotion, Peterborough can offer Baldock Championship football and he will obviously be eager to test himself at a higher level.

Any transfer money that is brought in could be used by manager Karl Robinson to bring new faces to stadiummk over the summer.

With the release of four squad members a day after the play-off defeat to Posh and the end of on-loan deals, there is certainly room to strengthen.

The Dons decline to comment on transfer speculation.

Seb sets sights on Canada win

SEBASTIAN Vettel's quest for back-to-back Formula One world titles continues in Canada this weekend and the German is relishing the prospect of extending his lead at the top of the standings.

After success in a thrilling race in Monaco the Red Bull driver enjoys a commanding 58-point lead over nearest rival Lewis Hamilton and he will be looking for a remarkable sixth win in seven races at Montreal's Circuit Gilles Villeneuve.

He said: "Canada is a very unique place. It's not a real track because it's on an island and also used for public roads.

"It's very slippery there, the asphalt is very smooth and we saw last year that tyre degradation is huge, but it's always good fun to go there."

Vettel finished fourth at last year's race behind Spaniard Fernando Alonso and a British one-two of Lewis Hamilton and Jenson Button.

"It's nice to spend a week there to go racing, so I'm really looking forward to it," he said.

Mark Webber, Vettel's team-mate at the city based team, finished fifth last year after being demoted from second to seventh on the grid after the gearbox in his car was changed pre-race.

He said: "The track has traditionally thrown up very interesting races due to the street circuit layout and because the low downforce configuration that we race in provides some good overtaking.

"The track should provide all the teams with a fresh challenge this year, as it will be the first time we run the cars with a completely different aerodynamic set-up to deal with the long straights, but the RB7 should be pretty tidy."

Meanwhile, Webber has said he would be "very surprised" if the Bahrain Grand Prix, rearranged for October 30, went ahead.

The original race was postponed due to unrest in the country, and Webber has been a leading dissenting voice now the race is back on.

He said: "I hope F1 is able to return to Bahrain eventually but now isn't the right time."
